Congratulations on your decision to breastfeed!

Breastfeeding has been proven to be healthy for your baby — and for you. Breast milk provides your baby with balanced nutrition and protection against illness, and is a loving, nurturing way to feed your baby. Breastfeeding helps a mother bond with her baby, get back in shape and may even lower her risk of breast and ovarian cancers.

Inova Fair Oaks Hospital's International Board-certified lactation consultants are here to support your decision with counseling, education, support and supplies for breastfeeding mothers.

Our lactation consultants are sensitive to diverse cultural needs, offer breastfeeding classes to mother and infant while they are first in the hospital, and consult with new mothers on:

- Basic position and latch of the infant
- Information about practices that promote successful breastfeeding
- How to prevent and manage such common concerns as poor latch, inadequate milk transfer or supply, nipple or breast pain, and how to calm a fussy baby
- Milk expression and storage for mothers who must be separated from their babies
- Strategies for breastfeeding after returning to work
- Breastfeeding in challenging situations, such as breastfeeding twins or triplets, premature or sick infants, or infants in special medical situations.

Lactation Counseling and Education

The best time to begin to breastfeed is right after your baby is born. Your Labor and Delivery nurse can assist with initial skin to skin time and attempting to latch.

Breastfeeding classes are offered Monday - Saturday in the hospital. Attending a class is a great opportunity to meet with our lactation consultants to receive hands-on help and ask questions you may have about breastfeeding.
